

FCC needs to establish a new classification for the internet relay protocol.

FCC needs to establish a dual (instate and interstate) classification and assign a name like "Unistate", "Dualclass", "Dualstate", or a term representing the dual instate and interstate classification.

And the dual classification eliminates the need for any additions to the protocols that determines the source of the caller.

Richard Roehm